With Overlord successfully seated into the leylines, the Cottage team could get down to the business of assisting our movement in the arena of Aquarian government and military in a new, detailed way. Actually, the Cottage team has a fascinating job. They cannot create an entire system based on what they know and understand, and then superimpose it onto a country or group of people. That's manipulation. But wouldn't it be nice if they just put together the new Aquarian systems and handed the blueprints to us for our respective countries? I dare say this is what most of us would prefer. It certainly would eliminate the need for a lot of thinking and effort on our part. Unfortunately, it just doesn't work that way.

What the Cottage team does is much more complex than this. We are the ones who dictate the timing and rhythm for our movement forward. We are the ones who define what we want to address and when we want to address it. We are the ones who decide what we want to avoid and ignore. And we are the ones who initiate change. We initiated the shift from the era of Piscean government/military to the era of Aquarian government/military (a process that will take about two hundred years to complete) when we dropped the first atomic bomb in 1945. At that point, people around the world began to understand that warfare as we had known it was now obsolete. No longer was warfare regional and contained within the context of specific conflicts affecting specific people. Now with the atomic bomb, the entire world could be destroyed, whether all regions are involved with the conflict or not. The arrival of the atomic bomb announced that the Piscean dynamic in our lives and throughout our social structures was ending and would become increasingly less effective.

It is important to understand that the White Brotherhood did not choose for us to drop an atomic bomb in order to initiate change toward the new. We chose this. We were the ones who freely decided in 1945 that it was the time, and the bomb was the instrument we chose to use to lead to the changes that the White Brotherhood laid before us.

We are in full partnership with these changes and nothing is imposed on us—or our lives. The Cottage team supplies us with impulse and option, all of which are compatible with Aquarian principles. They do this by seating those impulses and options into the new government leyline system, making them available to any of us at any time. As we think about and work through the challenges that come with change, we pick up on the impulses and options. Then we define what is important to us and how we will use the options. And as we act to implement these changes, we feel the support.

Thankfully, we don't have to invent the wheel. That is, we don't have to construct a new foundation for our government principles and structures. That would be difficult since we really don't understand the Aquarian dynamic and what is needed for the government/military foundation. But the Cottage team does understand these things and has the vision to see what is possible for us. In short, the Cottage team has already invented that new government wheel for us. And to further assist us, they update and modify that wheel as we move forward and need new options and awareness within the government/military arena to address specific crises as they arise, as well as to address overall change.

How do we work this leyline system? It's a lot easier than we might imagine. Leylines are a collection of electrical circuits. In order to connect with this leyline system, all a person has to do is focus on a government or military issue with the intent of discovering a new approach, a new direction, a new structure, a new solution... Focus is a biological electrical process. It is supported by the electrical system within the person's body. Once a person focuses on a problem or issue with the intent to discover the new, he automatically connects electrically with that part of the leyline system and program that relates to whatever he is focusing on. Like is attracting like. Electrical circuits within the human body that support a specific focus are connecting with electrical circuits in the leylines that support and hold the information on that same focus. The linking of human electrical systems is a natural process that we use in surrogate kinesiology testing all the time. Only with surrogate testing, we link two human electrical systems. When focusing on a government or military problem with the intent of finding a new solution, we link specific human electrical circuits with specific and related electrical leyline circuits. We do not have to be special. We do not have to be gurus. It's the natural way these electrical circuits work.

And receiving information from the leyline system is as easy as connecting with it. Remember all the work that went into making sure the primary mission intents and energies commingled with human sensory systems? This enables the information contained within the new government leylines to be so grounded that its impulses are accessible to anyone with a sensory system and the ability to think clearly—i.e., focus. And there we have it. This is the reason the Cottage team was so determined for the Mt. Shasta Mission to activate human sensory systems. It was the key to making their assistance available to any of us at any time.

Once we connect with the information in the leyline system that corresponds with what we are focusing on, that information then activates our nervous and sensory systems, becoming accessible to us in our thoughts, ideas and creations. It's up to us to decide how the information applies and how it is to be used. We have absolute and total free will at all times. But we also are not left to figure out everything by ourselves. We have help, and we have extraordinarily qualified experts as partners.

We civilians who are not working in the government or military are encouraged to tap into this new leyline system in order to educate ourselves about Aquarian principles and what Aquarian governments and military look like. In many societies, it's the citizens who elect the officials who run their government and make these decisions for us. Therefore, it is vital for all citizens to dedicate themselves to moving forward in the government arena through education and grassroots activity.

Another way the system works: The leylines and the program that is seated in that system are capable of supporting a population's movement as well as the movement of an individual. Let's say there is one mid-level government official who has been entrusted to upgrade his country's public health system. As an individual who is working on this one area of government, he can sit at his desk, think about the issues involved and commit to coming up with new solutions. Right away he may begin getting ideas that can point him toward new solutions. Or he can commit to new solutions and nothing happens right away. Then he goes to lunch and the waitress says something that triggers new thoughts for him. Or he goes home and his six-year-old does something that gives him an idea. The point is, once he focused on the issue and committed to coming up with something new, the leyline information was activated and will move into his consciousness through any avenue that is needed—his mind, his sight, his hearing, his taste, his smell, his touch. Whatever is needed and whatever route is easiest for him to receive clear, accurate impulse and understanding from the leyline information will be activated. This is how the government leylines were set up by the Cottage during the Mt. Shasta Mission, and this is how easy it is for us to work with them.

As I've said, the leyline information can expand to inspire and motivate entire populations or it can be used by an individual with a problem to solve. It is designed to accommodate this wide range of situations. But it's important to understand that it has action and change embedded in its intent. And this is where I give you fair warning: Although we civilians may wish to educate ourselves about the new Aquarian government and military principles, we will also be inspired to act. Action is part of the Cottage foundation program (Overlord) and the Cottage work in general. As a result, those who act will feel its support.

HOW DO THESE LEYLINES WORK?

1. Focus on a government or military issue, problem or crisis.
2. Commit to finding new solutions.
3. Act. Apply the new solution(s).
